Fight Against Pollution

Greetings esteemed nation leaders. There is an issue that you people have been turning a blind eye to and I am here to open your eyes to reality.

The beautiful seasons change from the blooming of spring flowers to the fluttering snow from the sky. Every year, the summers get hotter and the winters grow warmer, yet people like you who are at the top are so ignorant and obvious that you not only make other believe your lies but also yourselves. I hope that listening to this speech you all will have an open mind about the issue and save our future generation from living in an inferno.

To start off we must all co-operate with each other because a global issue can only be dealt with by the global community. Then comes pollution control, implementing penalties on factories that releases too much harmful pollutants and installing catalytic converters in factories must be compulsory. The next step would be that all petrol used in vehicles should be unleaded and converters should also be installed in every vehicle. Furthermore, the use of fossil fuels should be reduced and cleaner renewable energy sources such as solar and wind power should be developed. This will help to reduce the air pollution released by factories, generators and vehicles. The rate of deforestation should also be reduced, we as a global community need to start putting regulations on the cutting down of trees, as they are our best way to reduce carbon dioxide and hence, global warming.

I hope that you all will take my suggestions into consideration and start to work together to solve the issue at hand.
